On Saturday night, in the chamber of the second branch of council, the caucus of the Republican members of council was held for the purpose of naming candidates for the several positions in the gift of council, who will receive the support of the Republicans at the meeting of council to-morrow night. Every member of council of the Republican faith, was present, with the exception of Mr. Horkheimer, of the Second ward, who was kept away by illness in his family, but his proxy was voted.

The caucus organized by the selection of Mr. R. W. Miller, of the Eighth ward, as chairman, and Mr. John W. Kindelberger, of the Second ward delegation, was made secretary.

The first position for which the nomination was made was assessor north of the creek. The candidates were Messrs. Samuel Graves, present incumbent; Otto W. Haskell, Thomas Jones and Henry Tompkins. Only one ballot was required, and it stood: Haskell, 15; Jones, 7; Tompkins, 2; Graves, 2.

For assessor south of the creek, W. E. Bowers, present incumbent, Harry Thurber and Henry Kerns were placed in nomination. Bowers won on the first ballot, as follows: Bowers, 13; Thurber, 5; Kerns, 7; one not voting.

For city collector, Messrs. James K. Hall and E. P. Wheat were named, and Mr. Hall got the nomination on the ballot standing: Hall, 18; Wheat, 7.

For second ward market master, L. J. Davis, present incumbent, had no opposition.

For fifth ward market master, William Brumelle was nominated without opposition.

Chester Dean was renominated for cemetery sexton unanimously.

For city solicitor, Messrs. Frank W. Nesbitt, Sam O. Boyce and C. A. Mabon were named, and Mr. Nesbitt was renominated on the first ballot, which stood: Nesbitt, 17; Boyce, 8; Mabon, 1. The physicians suggested for health officer were S. L. Jepson, W. C. Etzler, and H. P. Linsz, the latter one of the defeated candidates for council in the Fifth ward, who entered the lists for this nomination at the last moment. Dr. Jepson was renominated on one ballot, which resulted as follows: Jepson, 16; Etzler, 7; Linsz, 2.

William Brandt had strong opposition for a renomination as lookup keeper in the person of ex-councilman Daniel Arndt, of the First ward. Brandt won without a vote to spare, 14 to 12.

Walter Buckley gets another term as assistant lookup keeper over his opponents, John Myles and Michael Rowan. The ballot stood: Buckley, 15; Rowan, 10; Myles, 1.

Candidates for board of public works included the old board, Henry Schmullbach, Benjamin F. Bachman, Frank McNeill and Frank J. Park. The successful ones were Henry Schmullbach and B. F. Bachman, Republicans, and Frank J. Park, Democrat.

The old water board was renominated, being composed of Henry F. Jones and A. F. Ulrich, Republicans, and A. H. Wiedebusch, Jr., Democrat.

For superintendent of the city prison, the names of Frank Woods, William McGannon and Conrad Peters were brought out. Woods was nominated on one ballot: Woods, 17; McGannon, 6; Peters, 3.

Alex. H. Forney, of the Island, will succeed himself as city receiver, having won the nomination over Edward Elliott, 19 to 7.

Names presented for weighmaster were those of Fred Rempel, Jack Arthur and William Murdoch. Rempel got there, receiving 14 votes, to 7 for Arthur and 4 for Murdoch.

George Lunan, Edward Dick and Louis Scie were suggested for superintendent of the crematory, and the latter was successful. The ballot: Scie, 17; Dick, 9.

Frank Edde, of the Eighth ward, will succeed Sam Sloan as janitor at the city building. He got 13 votes, Sloan 4, and George Miller 3.

Grace Straub was named for sanitress without opposition.

Edward Elliott, who was defeated for receiver, was nominated for special officer, defeating the present officer, David Hahn, on the second ballot. The other aspirants were Police Lieutenant Charles Bickerton and J. Honacker. The ballots were as follows:

Candidates. First. Second.
Elliott. 16. 19
Hahn. 5. 10
Honacker. 5. 10

It is understood that there will be no changes in the official roster of the water board and board of public works.

The general verdict was that the caucus acted with good judgment in the nominations it made. The nominees are men of ability in whose hands the city government will be conducted with the economy and honesty that have characterized four years of Republican control at the city hall. The caucus nominees will be regularly elected at the first meeting of the newly elected council, which will be held to-morrow evening. At the same meeting, the mayor, city clerk, city sergeant and deputies, and wharfmaster will be sworn in.

COUNCIL ORGANIZES

And Canvasses the Vote of Last Thursday's Election—James Maxwell President of the Second Branch.

The organization of the new council occurred Saturday afternoon, at a meeting at which there were few absentees. The returns of the recent election were read, and the newly elected members took the oath of office. The proceedings were on the order of routine, the only feature being the notice of a contest in the First ward by the defeated candidates for the second branch, Messrs. O'Leary, Taylor and Frazier. The notice, which included a request for a recount, was presented by Mr. T. S. Riley, attorney for the petitioners.

The first branch was first called to order by Mayor Butts. After the reading of the returns by Clerk O'Brien, the new members were sworn in. For clerk of this branch, Mr. Waterhouse named Thomas O'Brien, Jr., and his reelection was unanimous.

Mr. Waterhouse presented a resolution which provided for the appointment of a committee of committees, by the mayor, and president of the second branch, and selecting four members of the respective branches. The resolution was laid on the table until Tuesday evening, but the same resolution was adopted in the second branch, the members from that body appointed being Messrs. Kindelberger, R. Long, D. Marschner, R., and McMeekin, R.

The second branch members were sworn in by Mayor Butts, after which Mr. Kindelberger nominated James P. Maxwell for temporary chairman. On motion of Mr. Healy the election was unanimous. Later, Mr. Maxwell was elected president of the branch. He was nominated by Mr. Miller, and the election was unanimous. President Maxwell thanked his colleagues in brief and well chosen language.

Attorney Riley presented the request of his clients for a recount of the First ward ballots. Some discussion followed, and Clerk Watkins read the returns, showing the election of one Democrat to the first branch and three Republicans and one Democrat to the second branch. In this ward, Mr. Healy supported the request for the recount, and made a motion to that effect, which subsequently was ruled out of order, and by a vote of 15 to 10 the report of the clerk was adopted.

A joint session of both houses was next in order, presided over by Mayor Butts. The election report was read by Mayor Butts, and Andrew T. Sweeney, C. H. Watkins, W. M. Clemens and J. W. Northington were declared elected to their respective offices. There was no change in the returns as published in Friday's Intelligencer, Clemens' majority remaining 35, and not 26, as published in the other morning paper.

BENNETT WILL RETIRE

Will Not Take the Position of Lieutenant Under Chief Clemens.

It has been intimated recently that Chief of Police Thomas D. Bennett would possibly accept the position of day lieutenant under Chief-elect William M. Clemens, who will assume office to-morrow night after he and his men have been sworn in by the president of the second branch of council. Chief Bennett stated positively to an Intelligencer reporter last night that he would not continue in office under the incoming chief: "It would look too much like hogging the whole thing," was Captain Bennett's comment. It is said that not more than six or seven changes in the personnel of the police force will be made by Chief Clemens, and the names of the officers slated to retire cannot be learned. Rumor credits Day Lieutenant Bickerton as one of them.

It is to be regretted that Chief Bennett declines to continue in the police department. His successor as chief is a capable man, as is generally admitted, and if he could retain the services of the present chief, whose high ability is recognized far beyond the limits of the city of Wheeling, the move would meet with public approval, and there would be little or no carping criticisms on the ground of "hoggingness," feared by Captain Bennett.

DR. RAYMOND'S LECTURE.

On "Charles Kingsley and Christian Socialism" Interested an Intelligent Audience Saturday Evening.

The second lecture of the course being given by Dr. Jerome Raymond, president of the West Virginia university, Saturday evening, at the high school hall, was fully up to the high standard of the first one. His subject was "Charles Kingsley and Christian Socialism." From time immemorial, said the speaker, the world has revered the hero. Once the fact that he might be stern and harsh, perhaps cruel, did not detract from the worship given him. Today a new faith is lighting with its tender rays of thought our humanity. A new motive impels society. Our modern heroes are tender, human helpful. The world loves the champion of the weak, the distressed, the unfortunate. No better exponent of this new social motive, this nineteenth century faith of humanity, can be found than Charles Kingsley. Christian socialist, he stands before us; Christian socialist and Christian soldier, covered with the scars of a long and valiant warfare, a warfare not for place or power, but for the alleviation of the miseries of the workingmen, his fellowmen. His highest aim was to lift, if he might, the burdens from their shoulders, burdens placed there by unjust and cruel employers. The blows which he struck so manfully for the workingmen in their time of need have made him one of the foremost figures of our century.

The victim of the old English peasant system in his native working class, had his John Howard, the negro delivered from his birthright of humanity, had his Wilberforce, his Harriet Beecher Stowe, his John Brown, his William Lloyd Garrison; the English workingman, tolling in the choking atmosphere of the sweaters' den, the farm laborer in his barren downs, a hard slave to his unscrupulous landlord, who wrung the last farthing from his helpless tenant, had his Charles Kingsley.

The speaker then told, in a very graphic style, the story of Kingsley's early life, showing that the child was father to the man. He was a preacher when a child, preaching little sermons in the nursery with the chairs for an audience.

When Kingsley was a lad of thirteen in 1817, he witnessed the Bristol riots. The terrible scenes of bloodshed and pillage were indelibly stamped upon the boy's mind, and brought him face to face with facts which gave him, he asserted in after years, his first lesson in social science. The direct cause of the riots was the visit of Sir Charles Wetherall to the city as recorder. Sir Charles was cordial, kind and clear for the brotherhood of man, careless of public opinion, is one of earth's chosen heroes. His own motto in his life work might be ours to-day:

"Be earnest, earnest, earnest—mad if thou wilt;
Do what thou dost as if the stake were heaven;
And that thy last deed ere the judgment day.
When all's done, nothing. There's rest above—
Below let work be death, if work be love."

The lecture was heard by an interested audience, not so large as it would have been on another night. The next lecture will occur on Friday evening, February 10, at 8 o'clock.

Dr. Greene's Nervura Took Me Out of My Troubles and Made Me Well.

Mr. George E. Learned, Orford, N. H., Deputy Sheriff of the county says: "I have been troubled with chills and malaria, with stomach and liver trouble, and I have had over twenty doctors at work at my case without receiving any help. I was terribly run down, weak and prostrated, and without strength or ambition to attend to my work. I was pretty well discouraged, but finally hearing how much good Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy was doing, I began to use it. I tell you Nervura is a great medicine. It took me out of my troubles and made me well."

"Be earnest, earnest, earnest—mad if thou wilt;

A GOLD DEMOCRAT

Succeeds Mr. Mantle, Free Silver man, From Montana.

HELENA, Mont., Jan. 29.—On the seventeenth ballot the Montana legislature elected William A. Clark, Democrat, of Butte, United States senator, to succeed Lee Mantle. The vote was: Clark, 54; Conrad, 27; Marshall 4; scattering 4. Of those who voted for Clark 11 are Republicans. At a caucus of the Republican members last night it was decided to be good politics to vote for Clark in the belief that it would hopelessly disrupt the Democratic organization of the state.

The election of Mr. Clark was made certain when the grand jury, which investigated the sensational charges made by State Senator Whitesides, reported that it had heard no evidence on which to found an indictment for illegal use of money, thus vindicating Clark.

William A. Clark is sixty years old, a native of Connellsville, Pa. In 1856 his parents moved to Van Buren county, Iowa, where the senator-elect farmed and pursued his schooling. He studied law, but never practiced. In 1882 he crossed the plains, driving a team and locating at South Park, Col.

Mr. Clark was one of the first to reach Banquo, Mont., on the discovery of gold there in 1863, driving an ox team. His Montana career began with merchandising, but he soon got into mining, in which most of his vast fortune was accumulated.

Mr. Clark is the largest individual holder of copper mines and smelters in the world, his principal properties being Wheeling Responds to the Appeal of Dr. Hill to Aid in the Establishment of a West Virginia Endowment for the American University.

Rev. J. Wesley Hill, D. D., of Fostoria, Ohio, a trustee of the American University, established at Washington City, was in the city yesterday in the interest of this great inter-denominational educational work undertaken by the Protestant denominations of the United States. He held three services, in the morning at Thomson M. E. church, on the Island; in the afternoon at the Y. M. C. A., and in the evening at the Kirkwood M. E. church, at Bridgeport. The result of his day's work was the subscribing of $3,500, most of which will go toward the establishing of a West Virginia endowment fund for a professorate in one of the principal colleges of the institution.

The West Virginia endowment, says Dr. Hill, has already received the endorsement of United States Senators Elkins and Scott, of this state. The start was made very auspiciously in Wheeling yesterday, and efforts to increase the endowment will be made throughout the state by Dr. Hill and other workers in the cause.

It is designed to have in the near future an American University Sunday in the several Protestant churches in this city, the meetings to be addressed by noted workers, including Bishops Hurst and Fowler, of the Methodist Episcopal church; Rev. Dr. Davidson, the great Chautauqua leader, and Dr. Hill. Services will be conducted in each church, and it is proposed to wind up the day's work with a great mass meeting in the Opera House in the afternoon, to be addressed by all of the distinguished visitors.

Speaking of the American University and the field which it will occupy, Dr. Hill said it would be devoted to post-graduate work in all the departments of higher education. It is designed to preclude the necessity of pilgrimages to the Old World by American students, where, too frequently, they are contaminated with Oriental ideas of government and religion. It will be the carrying out of George Washington's idea of a great national university at the national capital. It will not emphasize denominational lines; while the Methodist Episcopal church is sponsor for the movement, the trustees represent many denominations. The faculty is made up of the most scholarly intellectuals that can be secured, regardless of creed or sect.

The movement originated with Bishop Hurst, the distinguished author and orator of Methodism. He became so impressed and inspired with the idea of a great national university that he obligated himself personally and eight years ago secured an option on ninety-three acres of land on the extension of Massachusetts avenue, in Washington City, three miles from the capital, at a cost of $100,000, which, to-day, owing to the phenomenal increase of the value of Washington real estate, is worth at least $1,000,000. Through the efforts of the bishop, the money to pay for this land was raised, most of it in Washington, and contributed by men and women of all creeds and some of no creed. The first building erected cost $150,000 and is the Hall of History. The plan contemplates the erection of twenty-six principal buildings, representing all the departments of higher education.

The states of the Union are being enlisted in the movement. Pennsylvania has endowed and will shortly erect the Hall of Administration at a cost of $50,000, all of which is subscribed. Ohio will erect of the College of Government; $25,000 has been subscribed already, and the contract will be let this spring.

BRIEF MENTIONINGS.

Events in and About the City Given in a Nutshell.

Mayor Butts will dispose of half a dozen drunks and disorderlies at this morning's police court.

The Charity Whist club will meet at the usual hour this afternoon at the home of Mrs. James Neill, on Fifteenth street. All the members are invited.

The death of Mrs. Mary A. Carmack occurred Saturday evening at the family residence, 151 Fifteenth street. The deceased was the relict of the late John Carmack and was in her eighty-first year. The funeral takes place this afternoon, with interment at the Peninsula cemetery.

At Thomson Church.

The Sunday services at Thomson M. E. church were the occasions of unusually large congregations, both morning and evening. At the morning service Rev. J. Wesley Hill, of Fostoria, Ohio, preached an eloquent and scholarly discourse. The night service was conducted by the singing evangelist, Rev. R. E. Hudson. The meetings at this church will be continued this week, afternoons and evenings.

Wheeling Men's Strike.

Messrs. Howard Thompson and H. B. Seybold, of this city, got an eighty-five barrel well on their Peck lease, at Sds, on Saturday. This was the only well that came in Saturday, and it is expected to keep up at these figures.

Steamboat with History.

At midday on September 6 some three hundred Englishmen embarked at Omdurman on board the Borden, which was commanded by Major Gordon, R. E., the nephew of the great general, says the London Graphic. Owing to the shallow water the steamer could not come in close to the bank, and a small boat had to be used. The process of embarkation was slow, and gave one a good opportunity of studying the lines of this celebrated old craft while waiting one's turn to be taken on board.

Surely no boat that swims to-day can boast a history so full of vicissitudes and tragic incidents as the Borden. Had they tongues, each plate and plank of the old paddle steamer could unfold a tale of unvaried horrors and atrocities. It will be remembered that she was wrecked in the Shabluksa Cataract on her return journey from Khartoum, with Sir Charles Wilson and Major Smart-Worley on board, after their fruitless effort to relieve General Gordon. Since that day she has been in the hands of the Derwishes, transporting them up and down the Nile on their raiding expeditions. Only last Friday she was ministering to these monsters of brute blood-thirstiness and rapine; four days later she returned to her original vocation, that of a pleasure steamer, once on the river Thames. She is richly studded with bullets and shrapnel more than half of her port paddlebox is torn away, yet she can steam at great speed against the heavy flood stream of the Nile. In her engine room there is a brass plate bearing the name of the firm which built her, "John Penn & Sons, Greenleaf," and her present efficiency, after all these years of knocking about, is an eloquent tribute to the solid workmanship of British shipbuilders and engineers.

The "reis" who piloted her in Gordon's time was still on board, and directed her course from the bridge, with Gordon's nephew standing near him.
